

TROOPS MASSED TO STORM COLOGNE

LITTLE TOLD
BY PRESIDENT
IN HIS SPEECHSUPPORT ASKED FOR BIG THREE PACT
AT YALTA

BY J. W. DAVIS
Washington, March 1. (AP)—President Roosevelt, in a dramatic air-chair appearance before congress, pleaded today for country-wide support of the big three agreements at Yalta and of his ideas for world peace.

"We shall have to take the responsibility for world collaboration or we shall have to bear the responsibility for another world conflict," he declared.

Mr. Roosevelt, one day after his return from the 14,000 mile Yalta mission, sat in a red plush chair in the well of the house as he spoke to a capacity audience of legislators, foreign diplomats and other notables. Armed guards watchfully patrolled the capitol.

Sentiment Divided

The reaction of congress was divided. While many members praised the speech, some expressed disappointment that it contained little new about the dealings at Yalta.

To Senator Barkley (D-Ky.) it was full of hope for a better world and to Senator Hill (D-Ala.) it was a "telling message" but Senator Taft (R-Ohio) remarked that "there was no news in it" and Rep. Knutson (R-Minn.) called it "a studied attempt to sell a bill of goods without opening the wrapper."

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) withheld comment. His views had been eagerly sought because Mr. Roosevelt has invited him to be a delegate to the United Nations peace conference at San Francisco. The senator has not announced whether he will accept.

Militarism Must End
Military and peacetime themes were both emphasized by Mr. Roosevelt. His main points included:

1. World peace is not a party question.
2. Germany and Japan must be shorn of their militarism and their power to make war.
3. The Yalta conference means an end to balance of power politics in Europe.
4. The Russo-Polish boundary agreement at Yalta was "the most hopeful agreement possible for a free, independent and prosperous Polish state."

His words fell upon important ears. For among his listeners at the joint session of congress were the senators who must, by a two-thirds majority, decide whether to approve the peace-enforcing machinery that is due to come out of the San Francisco conference starting April 25.

And in the audience, too, were the American people who listened over the radio. They will be the ones to whom the senators must turn for approval of the course they choose.

In his immediate audience, also, were the British ambassador, the Earl of Halifax, lanky in tweeds; Ambassador Bonnet of France, whose government has just signed a huge credit arrangement with the United States; Russian Ambassador Gromyko, formally dressed and dignified in his role as Premier Stalin's man in Washington.

And there was Ambassador Cieschanowski of Poland, whose long-

Baltic Coast Wedge
Widened By Soviets

BY W. W. HERCHER

London, Friday, March 2. (AP)—Russian troops widened their wedge toward the Baltic coast yesterday, driving one spearhead to within 11 miles of an American prisoner of war camp at Gross-Tychow, while Berlin announced that seven Soviet armies had opened a powerful new onslaught in East Prussia aimed at wiping out the last Nazi stronghold around Königsberg.

A Moscow dispatch said Red army planes attacking the Stettin-Danzig railway and highway, objectives of the Pomeranian push, had blocked traffic on those vital supply routes serving northern Pomerania and the Danzig-Gdynia areas.

Russian infantrymen officially still were 22 miles from those arteries where they run through the Baltic town of Koesslin, and 28 miles from the coast, but dispatches said hard-driving Cossack and Siberian horsemen under Lt. Gen. N. S. Oskolskiy were even closer, threatening to cut the routes and seal off thousands of Germans by splitting Pomerania in two.

Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian army gained up to nine miles and captured eight localities during the day on a 40-mile front north-west, north and northeast of Neustettin, prize communications towns taken Wednesday.

Fourteen miles northwest of Neustettin one column took Zechendorf, 11 miles east of Gross-Tychow. Another American war prison camp is at Kolberg, on the Baltic coast 33 miles northwest of Gross-Tychow. Whether the Germans have removed the Americans from these two camps is not known.

Pushing along the Neustettin-

Kolberg railway Soviet troops at the western edge of the Pomeranian bulge captured Escheniege, eight miles northwest of Neustettin, and also took Buchwald, four miles to the north.

Eighty miles to the southwest the right wing of Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's Berlin-bound First White Russian army was battering at the approaches to Stettin, the German capital's main Baltic port.

Late Berlin broadcasts said that "seven armies" had mounted a major attack against German positions around besieged Königsberg, East Prussian capital.

BRITAIN SHOWS
UNBROKEN UNITYChurchill's Policies Get
Green Light In 413-0
Confidence Vote

BY ALEX SINGLETON

London, March 1. (AP)—Britain's House of Commons unanimously gave Prime Minister Churchill a green light tonight to pursue the policies of the Crimea Charter after hearing that Germany will be sternly and severely dismembered as part of its bill for aggression.

A 413 to 0 vote of confidence rolled up by the government placed Britain, in advance of victory, squarely on record in support of the big three's momentous decisions for rendering Germany militarily impotent and establishing conditions for a stable Europe. Approximately 30 members in the chamber recorded a silent objection by declining to vote.

The action constituted a major triumph for the 70-year-old prime minister who was cheered as the first blanket legislative endorsement of the Crimea decisions by any one of the major powers and likely was a prelude to a similar move on the part of President Roosevelt and Congress.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, only a few minutes before the final tally, declared that Germany and Austria—cornerstone of Adolf Hitler's plan of conquest—would be separated, and called upon the Austrian people to initiate the division themselves with the warning that "time is running short." Eden made a last-minute appeal to Commons for unbroken unity.

With The U. S. Third Army in Germany, March 1. (AP)—A frantic German man and his wife sought the aid of the U. S. Third Army today and the old rule against fraternizing with the enemy went by the boards.

Capt. Alfred Hartmann, Malone N. Y., and Elwyn Akers, St. Louis, Mo., in fact spent four hours with the couple and when it was over a seven and a half pound boy had been ushered into the world to the accompaniment of heavy artillery fire.

The grateful parents named the baby Franklin Delano Ludwig.

Nelson To Resign
Job In Washington

BY STERLING F. GREEN
Washington, March 1. (AP)—Donald M. Nelson plans to resign shortly as personal representative of President Roosevelt on international economic affairs, informed officials reported tonight.

The former war production board chairman is said to feel that his services are being little used, despite his White House rank and his presence in cabinet meetings.

Nelson, who quit the executive vice presidency of Sears Roebuck and Company to become WPB chairman shortly after Pearl Harbor, is understood to be planning to re-enter private business.

Hammer Death Case

Pascagoula, Miss., March 1. (AP)—A guitar-playing seaman was charged today with the hammer slaying Tuesday night of a 22-year-old divorcee whom he said he serenaded on a bus in which she was riding to meet her soldier fiancé.

The seaman, Edward Sharp Bosarge, 22, of Kreole, Miss., told of his courtship between bus-stops with Mrs. Leona (Lillian) Pierce, of Denver, Colo., whose nude body was found Wednesday in a room at a fashionable Gulf Coast hotel near here.

YANKS INVADE
PALAWAN AND
TAKE CONTROLPHILIPPINES FIFTH
LARGEST ISLAND
EASY PREY

BY CLYDE BARTEL

Associated Press War Editor
Veteran U. S. 41st Division Infantrymen caught the Japanese flatfooted with a landing Wednesday (Philippine Time) on long and narrow Palawan island, fifth largest in the Philippines, and by seizing airfields to further throttle Japan's China Sea lifeline.

The doughboys, conquerors of the Nipponese in the Marshall islands and New Guinea campaigns, captured Puerto Princesa, Palawan's capital, and two nearby airfields, Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today (Fri). The Japanese not expecting the strike, fled to the hills.

Marines Mop Up
United States carrier planes yesterday attacked Okinawa and other islands in the Ryukyu group between Formosa and Japan, Tokyo radio reported, without American confirmation. The enemy said about 600 planes of the task force which blasted Tokyo factories Sunday made the Ryukyu raid, and claimed 54 of them were destroyed or damaged.

American marines, with two-thirds of Iwo Jima, battle-torn Japanese island 750 miles south of Tokyo, in their possession, began clearing the fiercely resisting Nipponese from the rugged northern third which is dominated by hills honeycombed with enemy machinegun, mortar and artillery emplacements.

The enemy radio also said an American convoy was concentrated off the Bonin islands, north of Iwo Jima.

Palawan is the 17th Philippine island invaded by the Americans, and as in the other attacks the doughboys went ashore with naval and aircraft support. MacArthur said Yank losses were "very light."

Manila Dams Menaced
MacArthur added that air bases on the island, only 500 miles from Japanese bases in North Borneo, not only would command Nippon's southern sea passages but also further the campaign to "cut the enemy in two and condemn all his conquests to the south to recapture."

On Luzon island, east of Manila, the First Cavalry Division captured hills dominating Antipolo and seized the town of Cardona on the north shore of Laguna de Bay, the communicate said. Fighting is intense in the watershed area, where the Japanese are in position to destroy the Philippine capital's water supply dams.

American aircraft from Philippine bases hit the Takao navy base, Formosa, with 78 tons of bombs; attacked enemy coastal craft near Hong Kong, destroying 11 ships and damaging 15 others, and dropped 98 tons of explosives on Japanese airdromes at Tarakan and Jesselton in Borneo.

Tokyo Regime Split
Washington announced the loss of three U. S. naval vessels. One of them, the small salvage ship "extractor," was sunk by a U. S. submarine through a mistake in identity. The other ships were the 14,250-ton cargo ship Serpens, manned by coast guardsmen and carrying ammunition, and a large

Furniture Building

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 1. (AP)—Fire swept through the six-story Grand Rapids Furniture Company building tonight, causing damage estimated by a company spokesman at $100,000.

The blaze, which threatened adjacent buildings in the center of downtown Grand Rapids, spread to a five-story building belonging to the firm. Cause of the blaze has not yet been determined.

One fireman was injured slightly in a fall. Virtually all of the city's fire fighting apparatus was called to battle the conflagration.

Meat Ration Point
Values Pushed Up

Washington, March 1. (AP)—Ration point values of meat were boosted sharply today, effective Sunday, with the over-all effect of cutting another 5 to 6 per cent off the amount housewives can buy in March.

The Office of Price Administration also raised the point value of four canned fruits and one vegetable, while cutting the ration price of two other fruits.

The canned foods which will take more blue points are mixed fruits, peaches, pineapple and pears. The point value for the popular No. 2½ can for these items is being increased 20 points—from 60 to 80.

The point value of tomatoes (No. 2 can) will be 30, an increase of 10 points.

The two decreases are for apples and applesauce, but one of them does not mean anything to most consumers.

The blue point value for a No. 10 can of apples is reduced from 120 to 80 points. This large can is bought principally by institutional and industrial users.

The point value of applesauce (No. 2 can) is being reduced 20 points to 10 points.

The meat prices apply generally to beef and pork cuts heretofore low in point value, or point free. A few higher value steaks and roasts actually come down in point price to make them more attractive buys and prevent them from backing up in stock.

OPA said the idea of the boosts is to make the point supply come out even with the civilian meat supply, down 5 to 6 per cent from February and 13 to 15 per cent from January.

The agency added that prospects for coming months are still darker.

Present lamb point values continue unchanged. Mutton remains on the free list. Most veal cuts are unchanged.

For those who can find them and have enough red points, T-bone and porterhouse steaks will cost nine points a pound instead of 12, and top round steak 10 points instead of 13.

Hard-to-find bacon, hamburger and chuck roast (bone in) go up to six points a pound. Present values are four for bacon and hamburger and three for chuck roast. Items being added to the point list include beef, veal, pork and lamb hams, sweetbreads and tongue, lamb liver, liver loaf and many sausage products made from rationed materials.

Listless Session Hears
Secretary Described
As Hokum Peddler

BY ERNEST B. VACCARO
Washington, March 1. (AP)—The senate confirmed Henry A. Wallace as commerce secretary today in a listless session in which he was alternately described as a symbol of progress and an exponent of "hokum."

Crowded galleries—scores had to stand—listened to the routine reading of prepared speeches which few bothered to interrupt.

Only the final roll call, 56 to 32, gave outward evidence of the bitter controversy stirred up by the former vice president's appointment to succeed the ousted Jesse Jones.

Administration leaders conceded that they saved Wallace from defeat, only permitting enactment of the George bill divorcing the RFC's $40,000,000,000 lending and financing authority from commerce department jurisdiction.

Saudi-Arabia Goes
To War, But Not All

Washington, March 1. (AP)—Most of Saudi-Arabia went to war with Germany and Japan today, but not all.

King Ibn Saud wrote President Roosevelt formal notification of the action under date of yesterday. His letter, reserving neutrality for Muslim holy places, was without doubt the most unusual war declaration yet.

The zone of neutrality was not defined but presumably is the territory of the cities of Mecca and Jidda.

GERMANS CUT

U. S. ADVANCETANK UNITS SLASH
WITHIN 2 MILES
OF RHINE

BY AUSTIN BEALMEAR

Paris, March 1. (AP)—The U. S. Ninth Army today swiftly captured the Ruhr city of Muenchen Gladbach—largest Reich center to fall on the eastern or western front—and the German radio tanks slashed 11 miles farther north into Krefeld, only two miles from the Rhine.

The U. S. First Army massed tanks and troops ready to storm the last five miles into Germany's fourth largest city of Cologne, and 80 miles south the U. S. Third Army smashed into the ancient fortress of Trier after a blazing six-mile spurt that cut off several thousand Germans.

Surrenders By Thousands
Only 20 miles northwest of where the Germans said the Ninth Army was driving for the Rhine, the Canadian First Army crunched southward nearly a mile, threatening to join the Americans in a rampage through the sprawling Ruhr industries west of the Rhine.

The fall of Muenchen Gladbach and adjacent Rheindt, where Propaganda Minister Goebbels was born, came at a time when the Germans were surrendering by the thousands, enemy tanks, guns and men were pulling back across the Rhine, and resistance was badly disorganized in spots.

Muenchen Gladbach proper has a population of 127,000 but is the center of a vital industrial region of 300,000 population. Despite its strategic railroads and highways only 12 miles from Dusseldorf, it fell without a serious struggle.

More Towns Engulfed
Citizens said the retreating German 15th Army had bypassed the city, noted for its textiles and often called the "Manchester of Germany."

The honor of capturing the city fell to the 29th Infantry Division, which reached it last night. There were light skirmishes on the outside of the city and then the Americans moved in. Only 15,000 to 20,000 civilians remained.

The largest German towns captured by the Russians on the eastern front are Hindenburg, 126,000, and Gleiwitz, 117,000.

The Ninth Army in all engulfed 12 more towns during the day and the First Army 27 in a powerful sweep which appeared unstoppable short of the Rhine and was threatening to cut off thousands of Germans arrayed along the Maas river and against the Canadian First Army on the north.

The Ninth, commanded by Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson, was reported making spectacular gains under a security blackout which, when lifted, might disclose that it already had reached the Rhine.

Dutch Line Folds Up
Between the Canadians and the Americans, the enemy's powerful Dutch line along the Maas river, which had balked a direct smash by the British Second Army into the Ruhr, steadily was being rolled up.

BUILDING SITE SOLD BY CITY

M. Fleming Authorized
To Construct Bottling
Plant In Escanaba

Lawrence Fleming of the Pepsi-Cola company last night was granted a permit by the Escanaba city council to construct a bottling plant on a site in the 300 block, Ludington street, which Fleming will purchase from the city for $1,800.

The city council first approved the sale of the five lots, each with a 25-foot front on the south side of Ludington street in the 300 block. The city had purchased the property over a period of several years and had removed unsightly buildings there with a view of getting the property back on the tax roll.

Fleming presented preliminary building plans to the city council. It had requested at its last prior meeting.

The proposed building will be 25 feet long by 140 feet deep and will include facilities for bottling and distribution of beverages. The building plans call for concrete block and glass brick construction, but the council requested that if it were possible without priority that the Ludington street face of the building be brick rather than concrete blocks.

Fleming told the council he estimated the building would cost between $15,000 and $20,000.

Engadine, Mich.—Miss Ruth Craft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Craft, of 852 West North street, Kalamazoo, and Austin Eakley, son of Mrs. Gustav Hahn, of Engadine, were united in marriage at a ceremony which took place Saturday afternoon, February 17, at 4:30 o'clock, at the First Methodist church in Kalamazoo. Rev. Dwight S. Large officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride was dressed in white sabardine with a veiled hat and her flowers were a corsage of American Beauty roses. The bridesmaid wore pale blue with yellow roses.

The couple will live at 317 North Prospect street in Kalamazoo.

Those from out-of-town at the wedding were Mrs. Hahn of Engadine, Mrs. E. J. Wood of Manistique, Margaret Schoettle Crowell, Mrs. Ellen Parker Lexington and Miss Alice Russell of Saginaw, relatives of the bridegroom, and Mr. and Mrs. George McNees of Watervliet, uncle and aunt of the bride.

Girl Injured; City To Pay Doctor Bill

Although disclaiming any negligence on the part of the city, the Escanaba city council last night authorized the payment of $20 for the treatment of injuries suffered by an eight-year-old girl when she was cut on an axe at the North Escanaba outdoor skating rink.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Franks, parents of the girl, wrote the city council their daughter had her nose cut when she fell on or was struck by the axe blade. The axe was one which the rink caretaker used for cutting firewood and left outside his shelter house.

City Hires Engineers To Make Steam Plant Study

Facing the necessity for providing additional steam service to meet demands, and to assure a safe standby, the Escanaba city council last night authorized the hiring of Laramore & Douglass, Inc., Chicago consulting engineers, to make plans and specifications for the plant enlargement.

Estimated cost of increasing the steam plant capacity from its 39,600 pounds of steam per hour to approximately 70,000 pounds per hour would cost an estimated $120,000, it was reported to the council by City Manager A. V. Aronson.

Laramore & Douglass, the consulting engineers hired to make the studies for the development, would receive six per cent of the total estimate, or $7,200, if the project is completed. One-half of this amount would be paid the engineering firm when the plans are ready, which would be in about two months, according to H. C. Hood, representative of the company, who appeared last night before the council.

The decision to hire the firm for the consulting work was recommended by City Manager Aronson.

Hood told the council that he believed it would be possible to have the enlarged central heating plant ready next fall.

The city council has been concerned over the limited capacity of the present installations and the possibility that service failure might follow a breakdown, although temporary arrangements have been made to care for such an emergency. However, there is need of additional capacity to meet increasing service demands as well as to provide adequate standby.

Laramore & Douglass, under the contract with the city, will make a survey and report which will include an analytical and economic study, cost estimates and engineering recommendations.

Specifications for purchasing the necessary additional machinery and equipment will be provided, and detailed plans and specifications, general supervision and coordination of the project, and the testing and preliminary operation of the plant are included.

Here are the bare alternatives Mr. Roosevelt laid down for the American people in a report on his Yalta discussions—and arguments—with Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin:

"There can be no middle ground here. We shall have to take the responsibility for world collaboration, or we shall have to bear the responsibility for another world conflict."

Yalta, he told the attentive off-cheering lawmakers, was a bright start toward the better world of the future.

A turning point, he called it, in American history.

Applause went up from all over the house when he departed from his prepared text to remark: "Republicans want peace as much as Democrats."

Mrs. John Carey, 1603 North Twentieth street, recently received word that her husband, Pvt. John Carey, is confined to a hospital in England where he is receiving treatment for trench fever. During the past year, Pvt. Carey has served in France and Belgium.

Mrs. Alma Nelson, former resident of Escanaba, died at her home in Washington, D. C., Wednesday morning after an illness of several months duration.

Mrs. Nelson is survived by two sons and two daughters, Wilfred, Philip, Mildred and Alice. Before going to Washington, she was in charge of the senior high school cafeteria here for several years.

Cuban Papers Fold
Up; No Newsprint

Havana, March 1 (AP)—The serious newspaper shortage affecting Cuban newspapers became aggravated today with the announcement by the management of the government daily, Siempre, that it is forced to suspend publication today due to lack of newsprint.

Simultaneously, the management of the afternoon and morning daily, El Pais, announced its afternoon edition today would carry only four pages and that, unless newsprint was obtained at once locally, the paper would be forced to suspend publication tomorrow.

Meanwhile, other Havana dailies, whose stocks of newsprint are running short, have cut down the number of pages, among them the independent morning paper, El Mundo, which is now printing only eight pages of its regular 18-page edition.

City Urges Support Of State Tax Study Recommendations

A resolution urging Gov. Kelly and state representatives from this district to support the recommendations of the state tax study advisory committee was adopted by the Escanaba city council last night. The recommendations, if followed, would be beneficial to Michigan municipalities.

The council also approved the city manager's recommendation that opposition be expressed against the following proposed legislation:

An increase in the tax exemption on veterans' homes without the state reimbursing the local community for the tax revenue loss which would result.

A bill which would make it mandatory for all representatives on county boards of supervisors to be elected, by amending the home rule charter which permits city councils to appoint representatives to the county board.

A bill which would take 40 per cent of the present 85 per cent liquor license revenues collected by the state and returned to townships and cities, and refund it to the counties for support of the county sheriff's department. Escanaba would lose approximately $4,000 a year without obtaining any additional service.

DENIES CLAIMS FOR WATERWAY

Allie Says Benefits Of Seaway Greatly Exaggerated

Construction of the St. Lawrence waterway would in reality prove of very little benefit to Great Lakes port cities, Roob Allie, Detroit, public relations director of the Michigan Railroads association, said while visiting in Escanaba yesterday. Allie expressed the opinion that extensive ballyhoo about the seaway project has given the public a misconception regarding the advantages it would afford this region.

"We already have a 14-foot St. Lawrence seaway," Allie said. "It has never been used to capacity. On it is being economically borne all the products for which interior America can find world markets, or that need an outlet to the sea or that seek to come into the Great Lakes basin."

"It will create no new markets. It will create no new traffic. It is nothing more than a new shipping route that will divert traffic from existing transportation facilities."

Allie said the St. Lawrence waterway would not help the automobile industry, and that leaders of the industry are not concerned whether it is constructed or not. "Great Lakes shipping would be hurt, not helped, by a deeper St. Lawrence," Allie continued. "It is agreed only a very minor portion of shipping on the Great Lakes calls for ocean carriage. The latter now moves by existing St. Lawrence channels, or is transhipped at Buffalo and other ports."

"Seaway advocates claim all this traffic, plus new traffic arising from the new markets they assert a deeper waterway would create, would move either in Great Lakes ships that would go out via the deeper waterway into the ocean, or in ocean ships that would come into the Great Lakes. Shipping authorities assert neither type ship would move out of its own navigating element. Great Lakes ships, with their great length, shallow draft, light structure, they point out are not built to meet ocean storms. Ocean ships, with their deep draft and high superstructure, need wider, deeper, straighter channels than even an improved St. Lawrence would offer in which to maneuver; and because they need larger crews and are more expensive to operate they could not afford to go too far away from the ocean lanes in which they most profitably operate."

"As to the railroads and their employees, the first shock of a deeper St. Lawrence would fall on them, if the seaway advocates' claims are true. As proved in the war, the railroads can handle double the freight they were called upon to handle in peacetime. Their present time need is for more and still more traffic. The loss to the railroads would be tremendous; similarly for their employees, as between 40 and 50 cents of every dollar the railroads take in, in normal times, goes to labor."

EHS Cast Is Giving Attention To Third Act Of "Showdown"

The third act of "Showdown," mystery play to be presented by seniors of the Escanaba high school on March 17, is receiving the special attention of the cast and Director Helen Snyder in rehearsals which are being held afternoon and evenings now.

Lines have been memorized, and the actors are now working on their individual characterizations. Scenery crews, working at the junior high school, are trying to obtain the proper effect in the desert hotel for which the play calls. Florence Olson is collecting properties for the three-act play. Among properties not yet located by her are a hotel desk, preferably an old bar with a rail across the bottom, an old leather davenport, a Colt revolver, lanterns, and a miner's pick and shovel. Anyone having information which might be of help to Miss Olson in obtaining these articles should contact her.

TERRIER TERROR

Ft. Sheridan, Ill. (P)—Inspection of WAC company barracks by the company commander was proceeding in a military manner when Sandy, Scotch terrier, decided he wanted to play with Sgt. Betty Bachar's shoe laces. The sergeant's attempts to quiet the dog shattered the military solemnity of the occasion.

Ernie Always Expecting To See Sadie Thompson

BY ERNIE PYLE

In the Marianas Islands (Delayed)—The B-29 squadron that my nephew is with is commanded by Lieut. Col. John H. Griffith, of Plymouth, Pa.

He walked in to our Quonset hut the first night I was here and grinned so of knowing-like as we were introduced. I felt our paths had crossed somewhere in the dim past, but I couldn't recall it. Finally he said "Remember the Rangitiki?"

"Oh for God's sake, of course," I said. The Rangitiki was the ship that took us from England to Africa in the fall of 1942. Colonel Griffith was in a nearby cabin on that trip and we became well acquainted. But the war is big and time flies, and you do forget.

Colonel Griffith flew combat missions both out of England and Africa. And now on this side of the world he has made 11 missions to Japan. But from now on, being an executive, he is restricted to four missions a month.

On one mission Colonel Griffith's bombardier had his leg blown almost off. As Col. Griffith was dragging him back into the pilot's compartment, he thoughtlessly took off his oxygen mask. In a moment he passed out and fell over. But he freakishly fell with his face right in the mask, and it revived him.

Although still young, Colonel Griffith has been in the army eight years, and will stay in after the war. His wife and baby and dog are waiting for him at La-Grange Park, Ill.

Colonel Has New House—Until recently Colonel Griffith lived with the pilots in the same Quonset hut I'm in. But a few days ago they finished his new house. You should see it.

It's a skeleton framework of two-by-fours about 30 feet square roofed with canvas and walled only with screen wire, tropical fashion. The roof overhangs about six feet all around to keep out the almost horizontal rain.

Inside, they've given it the semblance of a many-roomed house by putting up little high-partitions of brown burlap. This makes it seem that you have a living room, bedroom, bath, kitchen and sun porch, although it's actually just one big room.

The place is wonderfully comfortable. It has four desks, two cots and 10 chairs, and yet there's lots of room left. It has a big clothes closet, and a washbowl and shower, the water coming from two 50-gallon barrels up the hillside.

It has an icebox, a radio and a field telephone. Incidentally, Colonel Griffith still has the same alarm clock he took with him when he went to England nearly three years ago.

—$200 A Month Rent?

If you had this house in America, it would cost you $200 a month rent, yet the whole thing was built of packing boxes and metal bomb crates and army leftovers.

The wooden floor is painted battleship gray. Colonel Griffith likes to keep his floor clean. Consequently he has a big sign on his screen door saying "Please remove shoes before entering."

He isn't joking either. He even makes his own commanding officer take off his shoes when he comes to visit. He furnishes his guests extra socks in case their feet get cold, which of course they don't.

The house is built on stilts, and sits amidst laurel and other green shrubbery, wildly native, only 50 feet from the sea. You come down the slope to it over a path cut out of the laurel, and once in the house you are utterly away from everything.

Before you is only the curve of the lagoon, and the pounding of incessant rollers on the reef a hundred yards out, and the white clouds in the far blue sky. Several times a day sudden tropical showers drench and cool the place.

It's on Colonel Griffith's porch that I'm writing these columns. My only excuse for them not being better columns is that I can't seem to keep away from that low deck chair at the far end of the porch. And also I keep looking up the path to see if Sadie Thompson isn't strolling down with her umbrella.

The use of domestic silver for silverware, pens and pencils, church goods, jewelry, watch cases, and other non-essential items has been restricted to 50 per cent of the usage rate of 1941.

War Correspondent And Cameraman Speaks At Town Hall

Jack Barnett, war correspondent and cameraman for Movietone News in 26 months with the American forces in Ireland, England, Africa and Italy, has photographed royalty and generals and many scenes of his favorite subject—our doughboys, tank crews and gun crews in action. Barnett accompanied many bombing missions over Germany, Italy, Africa and Yugoslavia. He has photographed the bombing of Nazi cities and war plants, naval battles, paratroopers in action. His is the most human story of the war told thus far. With it all, he leaves his talk with humor. This colorful and picturesque cameraman and war correspondent will appear here at Town Hall Tuesday night, March 6.

At his request King George and Queen Elizabeth of England took their first rides in jeeps, and Barnett almost talked Eamon de Valera, president of Ireland, into riding a bicycle. But Barnett's proudest personal experience was preceding three American major generals into action one day during the El Guetair fighting in Southern Tunisia.

Bullets Rip Jeep

"The generals asked my jeep driver and me how near we were going to the front lines," Barnett related, "and we said as near as we could get. They said about another mile was as far as we should go, but we went three miles, the generals following in their jeep over roads littered with exploded shells and heavily mined."

"One of the generals said, 'This is No Man's Land, and at that instant the Germans opened up with machine gun fire from a hill. Some slugs tore thru the generals' car and they turned back."

"The driver and I threw ourselves off the road and found a ditch filled with bodies. We lay there a half hour with shells and machine guns banging all about us. When there was a slackening of fire, we raced to our jeep and sped back. We saw the generals again and one said to me: 'I thought you knew where we were going,' and all I could reply was 'I thought you knew.'"

They May Get It

DOWN at Lansing it is the opinion of veteran observers that in spite of the multiplicity of plans proposed to relieve financially distressed county and municipal governments in Michigan, an outright grant of state tax funds may be adopted as the solution. Gov. Kelly and other state officials have persistently opposed any such action, but it is reported from the state capital that a strong legislative bloc, composed of representatives of municipalities and rural sections of the state, is forming to back this proposal.

The unfair feature of the proposed measure is its provision that the funds effected shall be distributed to city and county governmental units on a population basis, rather than a basis of need. The needs of some thinly populated counties are relatively greater than in some metropolitan centers but on the proposed basis of distribution small counties will receive very little relief. It is also true that wasteful practices are more general in the large centers and no amount of state aid, that could possibly be provided, will either cure that evil or materially improve the financial status of those cities.

The legislature has frowned upon proposals to permit city or county governments to levy special excise taxes, or to permit any general increase in present state taxes and has, pretty definitely, turned down recommendations made by both Gov. Kelly and the state tax study commission. Apparently, the relief that certain municipal governments have been so persistently seeking, is to be made the subject of a legislative log rolling operation, that will result in little measure of relief and no fundamental solution of the problem.

Director Needed Here

THE city of Pontiac has reorganized its recreational department and has offered the position of director to E. Stuart Richter of Chicago, who has had wide experience in this field of work.

This news item reminds us that nothing has been done here to appoint a successor to Bevier Butts, who resigned as director of parks and recreation to take a similar position in Waukegan. For years, many citizens of Escanaba hoped for the day that a supervised recreational program would be established here. Their hopes were finally realized, and a well-rounded program for adults and children was carried on for some years.

We believe that when a municipal program has gained public acceptance it should be continued on a permanent basis. If it was good enough to establish here it should be good enough to keep in full operation. It is a program that first of all requires leadership, and Escanaba should be willing to pay a salary attractive enough to induce a capable and well-trained recreational director to take the job.

Gas Production Up

MICHIGAN'S 1944 natural gas production reached a new high of more than 21 billion cubic feet in 1944, according to the state conservation department.

The State's entire output is consumed by Michigan municipalities and industries. Grand Rapids, Flint, Lansing, Muskegon, Saginaw and Bay City are among the largest users.

Natural gas is now used for house heating over immense sections of the United States. Gas is piped from points as far away as Texas for use in Detroit homes. Billions of feet of gas are consumed annually in the central southern States, where its use is practically universal in communities of any size. The mains extend for miles through the country and thousands of farm houses are heated with this quick and inexpensive fuel.

Nature has dealt rather coldly, if you want to put it that way, with upper Michigan in denying it any supplies or easy access to gas and oil. In other parts of the country a small gas stove in each room takes care of the heating problem. Meter rates are very low, and the use of individual room stoves is most economical, since an unused room needs no fuel and the heat can be turned off in an instant.

Escanaba is fortunate in having a central heating system which eventually may service a large part of the city. Such a plan is the next best thing to availability of gas for heating purposes.

May Get Answer

MEMBERS of the house fisheries subcommittee have announced they will ask the Fish and Wildlife Service to make a survey of fish deaths in the Great Lakes caused by the lamprey eel and other pests. The decision was prompted by testimony given by commercial fishermen at hearings held at Bay City and Blaney Park recently.

The investigation may answer the question of what caused the mass deaths of smelt in the Great Lakes during the winter of 1942-43. This is a matter that has puzzled scientists and the general public ever since the silver fish mysteriously vanished from these waters. After the cause has been found, it is unlikely anything can be done about it, however, for Nature still presents problems that are unconquerable by mere man.

Isolationism Is Dead?

THERE will be many who will wish that Comdr. Harold E. Stassen was right when he asserted in Albany this week that the United States has left isolationism behind. The former Minnesota governor expresses his conviction that both parties will henceforth pursue a policy of international cooperation in an effort to preserve world peace.

Former Governor Stassen's record is clear for he long has been anti-isolationist, but we can never be sure that America will not again crawl into her shell and absolve herself of all responsibility for world problems outside her territorial limits.

During the stress of war and even in political campaigns, office-seeking politicians profess to favor joint efforts by nations to prevent future conflicts, if they think the majority of voters demand such a policy. But after this war is over, the public may lose interest temporarily in world problems because of other worries closer home. It is then that old-fashioned isolationism may reappear on the national scene.

What is needed is a continuous effort to impress upon the public mind that isolationism did not keep us out of the last two world wars, and it is about time that a plan for international cooperation must, at least, be given a fair trial.

APPROPRIATION APPROVED (Iron Mountain News)

It is noted with more than ordinary interest that the bill carrying $79,339,886 for provision of hospital facilities for veterans in service calls for investment of nearly $2,000,000 for a 250-bed unit in the Upper Peninsula. The approval of the bill by the House appropriations committee may be taken as assuring that it will be enacted without substantial change. A veterans' hospital for the peninsula is, it appears, now a certainty.

The question where it is to be located is open. Provisions of appropriation in the pending bill will intensify effort to secure it in the communities that believe they are well placed to permit such a hospital to be reached by the maximum number of relatives of the men being cared for with the least effort and expense. The proposed hospital is rightfully held to have much economic significance. The staff will be large, and the flow of visitors to patients who will be cared for in the community in which it is located will be constant and in the course of a year of large proportions.

There is no word as to when the hospitals that will be erected with the nearly $80,000,000 appropriated by the pending bill will be put up. Ordinarily they would not be erected and outfitted during the war, when the demand for essential materials for military purposes will be unrelenting. But provision for wounded personnel is an essential part of the war effort. Thus it may be that plans for the hospitals will be made and carried out with the least possible delay, once the money for them is provided.

At any rate the peninsula communities that hope to be designated as the place for construction of the hospital to be erected in this part of the state are on notice that they cannot afford to delay effort to make the best case they can as to why they should be favored. They have been doing much preliminary work to this end. They must now round out their cases, and see that they make them as strong as they can be made.

Q. Heard on the radio: "Each one of us should do his utmost." A teacher of English contends it should be "our utmost." What about it?

A. The subject "each one" is singular, while "our" is a plural pronoun. The radio sentence is correct, for it is good usage to use "his" in the meaning of "his or her."

Q. Our English class submits the sentence: "Everyone uses their handkerchief at some time or other." Wrong?

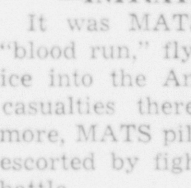

A. Wrong. Like "each," the pronoun

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Naples—You fly from France to Italy by an airline that carries more passengers and freight than any commercial airline in America. It's the Mediterranean Air Transport Service, the name of which is shortened, as everything is in this alphabetical war, to its initials —MATS.

While MATS links up with the U. S. air transport command that girdles the entire globe, it functions independently in this theatre of the war, setting its own schedules and fixing its own priorities in carrying out the multitudinous transport tasks essential to this most complex of all wars.

Childs

—INITIATED "BLOOD RUN"—

It was MATS that first initiated the "blood run," flying whole blood packed in ice into the Anzio Beachhead when our casualties there were heaviest. What's more, MATS pilots flew the blood run, unescorted by fighters, into the heart of the battle.

One MATS job has been to spray areas of land to prevent malaria in Africa, Sicily and parts of Italy. This has been one of its most dangerous tasks, since the planes must fly at a low level and in areas just captured, with the hazard of getting over enemy lines. Another former MATS job was to evacuate the wounded from field hospitals, but this is now done by the troop carrier command.

Emergency jobs are always coming up for this line that is just one block in the extraordinary world structure organized by the army air forces. In the Sicilian campaign, it was discovered at the last moment that life preservers had been left out of LST's that were to carry a force onto a beachhead. MATS flew more than 100,000 pounds of life preservers in less than twenty-four hours.

MATS flies war dogs, which get airsick and fight when they are frightened and sick. It flies VIP, which is air transport for very important persons, meaning congressmen or roving diplomats. It flew supplies into Russian bases for shuttle-bombing operations.

—PEOPLE USUALLY FORGET—

One of the organizers of MATS and now director of operations, is Colonel Paul D. Sheeline of Boston. Colonel Sheeline believes the American public should be told more of the horrors and brutalities which our boys go through. If the public is protected from the brutal reality of the war, they will never understand the attitude of the men who come back, he believes. I am sure there's truth in that but I have a sad feeling that no amount of telling can ever bridge the gap between experience and lack of it.

As I came along the Italian coastline, we flew low over Anzio. There was the rubble of the city and, all around, the earth was pitted with shell craters and foxholes, looking like the landscape of the moon. Yet the countryside seemed peaceful. It was astonishing to think that, a short time ago, fierce and prolonged battles had raged down there. Peasant fields were tilled with precise neatness.

They had the look of the pieces of a puzzle fitted together. At one edge was another field, with precise rows of white markers. That was an American cemetery for the dead out of Anzio. Near row upon row, so carefully done.

That is the way war is. Someone always comes along and picks up the pieces, and then people forget.

Grace Allen Says

I see they have Nazi prisoners of war helping out with the citrus crops in California. Well they've certainly had the right experience for the job after picking a lemon like Hitler.

Just imagine those mean old Nazis living in this famous California climate. Well—it serves them right. Of course, if the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce reads this, I'm only kidding. You fellows write some beautiful weather. Maybe you should write some propaganda leaflets to drop behind Nazi lines.

Think of the allure in a folder with the lines: "See our sunny California prison camps. No rains, no fog, no Himmler."

Goodness knows the Germans should be used to unusual weather themselves what with the current Berlin weather reports reading: "Moderate showers of incendiary bombs, heavy cloud formations of American bombers—complicated by advancing Russians and departing government officials."

"everyone" is singular. Correct: Everyone uses his handkerchief. . . .

Q. Recently I read: "Not one in a thousand knows an amperand when they see one." Isn't this a scrambling of singular and plural?

A. Yes. "One" is the subject. It should be followed by a singular pronoun, thus: Not one in a thousand knows an amperand is the character; &.

Q. From a "beauty" column: "Two noted hair stylists are in town to coif St. Louis women." Shouldn't there be a law?

A. There is—the law of English grammar. The verb "coif" should be followed by a pronoun in the objective (acted upon) case, thus: . . . are in town to coif us St. Louis women.

Q. Is it correct to say, "My husband is six feet high?"

A. In best usage, people are either tall or short, while buildings, mountains, etc., are high or low. Buildings are sometimes called tall; but high is the better term.

Tale of Two Cities

Good Morning!

By The Bugler

STATE TAX COMMISSION — The reappraisal of real property on the tax rolls in the city of Escanaba, now under way as authorized by the city council, may further throw out of kilter the valuation balance between Escanaba, Gladstone and the townships.

While such a condition was not unforeseen as a result of the reappraisal in Escanaba, it only brings the unbalance in to sharper focus. It does not in any way end the necessity for the reappraisal in the city. Rather it proves only that if Escanaba puts its tax rolls in shape to stand the most critical inspection, the burden of proof must then fall on other taxing units of the county when the time comes to equalize the tax burden in the county next spring.

Escanaba should not be criticized for putting its house in order. Rather it should be praised. And if the Delta county board of supervisors in session next spring is unable to equalize the county's valuation as between cities and townships to the satisfaction of Escanaba taxpayers, the state tax commission may be called in to do the job. This is a possibility, for Supervisor Peter N. Logan of Escanaba last year served notice that he personally would ask the state tax commission to step in unless the equalization is done fairly and equitably.

WHAT IT MEANS—In a recent report of the state tax commission for the years 1943-44, there is information on the methods of the state in reviewing assessments.

"A general review of assessments usually originates through the medium of a proper resolution requesting such a review adopted by a County Board of Supervisors, a Township Board, a City Council or the official governing body of any assessing unit."

The report then outlines the tremendous task of reviewing assessments generally in a county and mentions the work done in Alger county in 1943 as an example. Ten of the state's property examiners were employed on the reassessment for about seven months.

(There was general complaint on the part of Alger county officials at the result of the general reassessment there. Delta county supervisors who visited Alger county came back with an unfavorable report of the state's work.)

In the reassessment in Alger county the total assessed valuation was boosted from $6,442,360 as approved by the board of review, to $7,880,840 total reassessed valuation as established by the state tax commission.

COOPERATIVE PLAN — The state tax commission was not called upon in 1944 to make a general review in any assessing district in the state.

"Beginning in 1943 the Commission began experimenting with a method of reassessment that would encourage not only the cooperation of the necessary unit officials but would receive the cooperation of the majority of the taxpayers as well," the report continues.

"For many years reassessment projects made by the Commission were not accepted favorably by a portion of the officials, the taxpayers or interested groups representing the minority opposing the adoption of the required resolution for such action."

"In 1943 a cooperative effort was developed in the city of East Lansing, the results of which were held in abeyance pending necessary charter revisions and this reassessment will undoubtedly be completed for the 1945 assessment rolls."

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1935

Escanaba's checker tournament ended this week with David Beauchamp acclaimed the champion. He defeated the other tournament entries: George Fung, Tom Harris, Jack Starrs, Frank Gauthier and Ed Duchaine. The champion is now trying to contact the Wisconsin champion and book up a match series with him.

Robert Oshins, 806 Ludington, graduate of Escanaba high school now attending the University of Chicago, is the co-author of a play which has been accepted by the Blackfriars, men's dramatic organization at the university, for their current production. The play is a satire on the university professor "brain trust" at Washington, and is called "In Our Brains We Trust." Selection of the play always affords keen competition, and the successful author is accorded honors on the campus.

20 Years Ago—1925

Harry Brackett will be the speaker at the salesmanship classes at the Cloverland Commercial College Tuesday and Thursday mornings of this week. His topic will be, "The Creating Desire."

Gladstone—Gladstone boys and girls and grown-ups who are still boys and girls at heart will be out in full force this afternoon for the Gladstone dog derby, which will be run off under the direction of the American Legion post with some of the fastest dogs in the city competing. The derby was postponed from the Monday following Washington's birthday, due to the alarm following the outbreak of rabies in Rapid River.

Seven dogs are entered so far, although other entries may be made at the last minute. They are: Yip, white Scotch collie, driver Jack Muggs; Dick, driver, Wilfred Minear; Collie, Jack Reynolds; Nig, George Pettit; Collie, shepherd, Branko Maronich; Fanny, collie, Raymond Jahnke; and Shepherd, Edward Murphy.

tax commission report also announces that the commission is prepared and willing to assist local assessors in their work.

"The supervisory field staff of the department consists of members skilled by experience and training in the appraisal valuations of industrial, utility, business, personal, urban residential and rural farm properties. Their assistance is available to assessing officers on any unusual assessment problems."

"In addition, property assessment examiners are permanently stationed in 14 districts throughout the state to work with and assist the assessing officers in the area in the development of correct legal descriptions, classification of property and uniform valuation within and between classes of property."

EQUALIZED VALUE — The three members of the state tax commission, and the auditor general and the commissioner of agriculture compose the state board of equalization. They determine annually the full cash value of assessable property in the 83 counties of Michigan. It is used as a basis for the apportionment of special state aid to school districts, and is an official determination of proper assessed values.

In 1943 the equalized valuation of Delta county as established by the board of supervisors was $15,821,400. The state board of equalization said the county's value was $12,000,000.

In 1944 the county board placed Delta's equalized valuation at $17,474,716. The state board of equalization said it was $22,250,000.

Whether the county board of supervisors next spring will hike the equalized valuation to a figure nearer the state's, as they did last year, is problematical. If it does boost valuations, Escanaba taxpayers will be watching closely to see how and where the increases are applied.

NEW YORK—On the last day of rehearsals for Moss Hart's USO company of "The Man Who Came to Dinner," Louis Howard, who plays one of the leading roles, suddenly became ill and the show's five months' tour was about to be postponed. . . . Hart immediately telephoned Sardi's and asked: "Who's at the bar now?" One of the bar-standees was Kenneth Tobey, who once had auditioned for the playwright. Hart told him to rush to the Ziegfeld Theatre, where the rehearsals were taking place. Tobey was coached in his role, opened in it the next day at a Mitchell Field try-out of the play and now is leaving with the company on its overseas tour.

ED PAULEY, treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, has invited Henry Wallace to make the Jefferson Day address in Los Angeles. . . . Raymond Moley will become a Blue Networks commentator on March 11. . . . John Hersey, the correspondent and author of "A Bell for Adano," returned from Moscow yesterday. . . . Mrs. Jim Farley was at the Stork Club last night and at the midnight curfew she said: "Well, that's what you get for voting for That Man." When Mrs. Farley was told that she still has the right to assert her independence, she said: "Yes, but I don't know where to go to be independent."

DR. HERBERT GRAF, the Metropolitan Opera's stage director, tells of the first time he arrived in America. Some one noticed the wide-eyed youngster who was strange to the New World and started pointing out the sights for him. He pointed to the right, and told young Graf: "That is New York." Then he pointed towards New Jersey and said: "And this is America."

SENATOR WAYNE MORSE of Oregon, who defeated the veteran Senator Holman in the last campaign, isn't hiring any new employees. He's taking over Holman's office staff intact. . . . Russell Davenport is leaving for Europe on a roving assignment for Collier's. . . . Henry McLemore, the former columnist, was awarded the Purple Heart last week in the Philippines. . . . New York's most famous poker club, The Hoyle Club, which held its regular sessions in hotel rooms where waiters were in constant attendance to serve food and drink to the players—moved to a private home yesterday because of the curfew.

GOVERNOR Frank J. Lausche of Ohio was invited to make a speech in Philadelphia. The new Governor, who succeeded John W. Bricker, refused the invitation. "For two years," he explained, "Ohio had a Governor who barnstormed to run for the Presidency of the United States. I'll stay right here and do Ohio's business."

JOHN KIRK, who plays the old Judge in "Harvey," never missed a performance in his 44 years on Broadway. Last Saturday, when he was stricken, his doctor warned him that if he left his bed he probably would die. Mrs. Kirk locked all her husband's clothes in an old wardrobe trunk and the protesting actor was unable to make the show. . . . Lindy's, which has been closed every Monday, will operate on a 7-days-a-week schedule to make up for the curfew closing. . . . Fibber McGee & Molly will portray Mr. & Mrs. Public in the Treasury's All-Star War Bond Show April 24. Hope, Crosby and Harry James will co-star.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

(Lt. Col. R. S. Allen now on active service)

Washington—On the eve of John L. Lewis' coal negotiations, hard fuels administrator Harold Ickes rolled up his sleeves and did some tough talking about coal shortages to an off-the-record session of the war production board.

He warned the closed-door session of production bigwigs that although coal was scarce this year it was going to be worse next year. He predicted a deficit in bituminous coal alone of 50,000,000 tons.

Ickes praised the operation of both the mines and the miners, saying that the average age of the miners today is around 45, whereas their ages used to be under thirty. He said that 30,000 men had been drafted from the coal mines last year and about 30,000 would be drafted this year. Once these men were gone, Ickes said, they cannot be successfully replaced. Without saying so directly, Ickes implied strong criticism of the U. S. army for drafting these men.

"In England," he said, "they even drafted men and sent them to the coal mines. We do just the reverse."

Ickes also indicated that he would take over the coal mines at the drop of a hat if negotiations between John L. Lewis and the coal operators fail this month. He said the industry could not afford to lose a single day's production.

"Both sides know what they want," Ickes told army-navy moguls also attending the meeting. "If they can get together at all, they can do it in the first few days of their talks."

Ickes also dropped some pointed hints to his colleague that if John L. Lewis and the mine owners did get together it was sure to raise the cost of living and might break the Little Steel formula. He urged, therefore, that the government make up its mind how much increased cost it would permit, if any, and let the coal industry know right away.

Finally Ickes urged that factories adopt coal-saving devices and said he would send his experts to factories to advise with them. He also urged the office of defense transportation to clean up transportation snarls on the railroads so the coal mines could ship coal.

"You can't operate mines without cars to ship the coal," said Mr. Ickes.

—CAPITAL CHAFF—

Assistant Secretary of State Dean Acheson has been talking about resigning after the San Francisco United Nations conference in April. If so, Oscar Cox, the man who really ran lend-lease for Ed Stettinius, will step in to take his place. . . . it now looks as if Judge Sam Rosenman, White House confidential adviser, would be appointed to the U. S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia when Judge Justin Miller of that court replaces Judge Curtis D. Wilbur in California. . . . Judge Rosenman took 65 pounds of paper reports with him on the airplane to Europe when he flew there to study the liberated countries. Officials remarked: "They weigh almost as much as the dog." . . . Rosenman dropped the liberated countries like a hot cake to return home with the President.

The Japs are frantically building forts along 1,000 miles of the China coast. They figure that landing in China will be our next move. . . . Some officials inside the justice department want to commute the death sentence of Nazi Saboteur Colepaugh to thirty years instead of life because he surrendered to the FBI. . . . Congratulations to the Atlantic Coast Railroad line for installing radio-telephones as a safety device from Rocky Mount, N. C., to Florence, S. C.—231 miles of line.

—STRANGE BEDFELLOWS—

The fight over Aubrey Williams as rural electrification administrator has lined up one of the queerest conglomerations of friends and enemies the Senate has seen in years. Solons who seldom agree on anything are uniting either for or against Aubrey Williams.

Some of them are influenced because they don't think Williams believes in God. Some are the backstage tools of the big utility lobby, now invoking religion to defeat Williams—though actually he is one of the most God-fearing men in Washington.

Spearhead of the opposition to Williams is one of the Senate's unique and seldom-heard-from members, Bushfield of South Dakota. Bushfield has two major claims to fame. First, he is the author of last year's appropriation bill to compensate an Indian Squaw, "Winnie-Left-Her Behind." Second he has had more millionaires, living far distant from South Dakota, contribute to his campaign than anyone in the Senate.

Here is the record of contributions when Bushfield was elected in 1942: From Wilmington, Del., Lamont Du Pont sent $2,500, plus another $2,500 from their associate in General Motors, Alfred P. Sloan; plus $2,000 from another Du Pont-in-law, Donald Brown.

The millionaire Mellon family also contributed heavily to elect this unknown gentleman from South Dakota: Sarah Mellon Scaife, $4,000; Ailsa Mellon Bruce $5,000; and L. W. Mesta $1,000. Then the Joe Pews of Sun Oil in Pennsylvania sent along $6,000; Colonel McCormick of the Chicago Tribune sent $5,000; and Nazezy Jarmon of Tennessee, president of the General Shoe Company, sent $10,000, despite the fact that the top contributor under the hatch act is $5,000.

FR. MELICAN IN HOSPITAL

Will Assume Pastorate
After Recovery
From Injury

Rev. Father Martin B. Melican, recently appointed by the Most Rev. Francis J. Wagner, Bishop of Marquette diocese, to the pastorate of St. Patrick's church, will assume his duties here as soon as he has sufficiently recovered from injuries received some weeks back when he was struck by a car. The pastor, who suffered a fractured leg, is still confined to St. Mary's hospital at Marquette.

Father Melican was born in Manistique. He was graduated from St. Francis de Sales parochial school and Manistique high school and then entered Michigan State college at East Lansing where he received his degree in 1916. He taught school the next year at Baraga high school in Baraga, and from 1917 to 1922 was a member of Escanaba high school faculty.

After leaving Escanaba he was professor at the Salvatorian college at St. Nazianz, Wis., for two years and subsequently, an instructor in mathematics at Routh college, Jacksonville, Ill., and instructor in the department of science and mathematics at Quincy college, Quincy, Ill.

He entered Kenrick Seminary at St. Louis, Mo., for the study of philosophy and theology in 1925 and on June 7, 1931, he was ordained to the Holy Priesthood by the late Bishop Paul Joseph Nussbaum. One of the first solemn masses following his ordination was offered at St. Patrick's church in his new assignment.

His first appointment was that of assistant priest at St. John's church, Ishpeming. On July 1, 1931, he was transferred to St. Peter's Cathedral in Marquette as one of the assistant priests and in May, 1935 he was appointed superintendent of the Holy Family Orphan's Home in Marquette. The following year he was appointed superintendent of schools for the diocese of Marquette, and during the time of the late Bishop Plagens, he was appointed director of charities for the diocese.

He has taken an active part in community affairs in Marquette, serving as a member of the Post War planning commission, the Marquette community chest council and the Association of Welfare Agencies.

Worry Clinic

With Case Records Of
A Psychologist

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE F-205: Harlan C., aged 29, is a foreman in a war plant. "Harlan works in a department where there are six men and about 50 women," his wife informed me. "There weren't many girls in his department until the war brought them into the factories."

"I didn't mind his working with women, but I do think something must be wrong with management when it gives parties to which wives are not invited."

"For the past year, there have been monthly parties at the plant. We wives are not invited, and our husbands have informed us that it doesn't look right for us to be there, since it is strictly a departmental affair."

"As a result, three of the six men already are involved in affairs with girls who work with them. All three of these men have children."

"And now Harlan has confessed that he is enamored of one of the girls, too. Dr. Crane, what is wrong with a factory that is so short sighted as to sponsor social events that encourage men in having illicit affairs?"

Diagnosis

Throughout the period of the war, I have encountered many persons with this identical complaint, and my mail has been full of letters from husbands, as well as wives, who have outlined this same problem.

An intelligent personnel department recognizes that maximum efficiency on the job is predicted on a happy, well adjusted home life of the workers.

No smart personnel manager would countenance factory parties to which the wives or families are not invited.

Such an unwise procedure would be like sending a child into a gasoline refinery with a box of matches. A chance striking of a match would then lead to catastrophe.

And when a few young married men are beered and cheered by half a hundred man-hungry females till late at night, and then seductively encouraged to take the girls home, and not be in too great a hurry to leave, another unfortunate match may be struck up, with domestic catastrophe as the aftermath.

Beware the Red Wine

"Look not on the wine while it is red," states the Bible, meaning, "Stay away from temptation!"

Your husband may be an honorable fellow, morally trained and devoted to you and your children.

But let a score of rouged girls surround him with eager "Ah's" and "Oh's," and he may become emotionally intoxicated with his apparent irresistible romantic appeal.

If they meanwhile ply him with a few bottles of beer, his judgment is partly anesthetized by the liquor, and you wives at home will have further cause to worry.

It would seem that on many occasions, management is to blame for such unwise parties. The war is indirectly behind these evidences of adult delinquency.

But if you wives wanted to prevent your husband from being tempted in the gastric realm, you'd gorge him with foodstuff at home so he would have little appetite for the pie or cake or beefsteak that even a ravishing beauty might offer him. You can likewise render him more immune to outside seduction.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long 3c stamped, addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing or printing costs when you send for one of his psychological charts.)

HIRE CODDARD TO MAKE PLANS

Will Determine Cost Of Utilities Extension For Vet Facility

Meeting in special session Monday evening the Gladstone city commission moved to hire L. D. Coddard, well known Upper Peninsula civil engineer, to prepare plans for the extension of utilities to the site which is being offered to the Veterans' administration for the location of a veterans' hospital. Coddard will also prepare estimates of the cost of the extension of the utilities, sewer and water, to the site.

An engineer of the Veterans' administration will be in the Upper Peninsula about May 15 to inspect the various sites that are being offered by communities throughout the district. In the meantime the Veterans' administration has notified interested cities that they will receive data sheets in the near future in order that they may determine what sites may be suitable.

Among the requirements that have already been made public, one is that the site used for a veterans' hospital must be transferred in fee simple, including mineral rights. Another requirement is that suitable housing for hospital employees and visitors must be available.

The government proposes to erect a 250-bed hospital at a cost of over $1,900,000, somewhere in the Upper Peninsula. The facility will be one unit in a program calling for the total expenditure of $79,339,886 in 1946.

SOO TAKES OFF TRAINS 86-87

ODT Order Permitting Cancellation Remains In Force

Soo trains 86 and 87 have been discontinued until further notice. Protests from civic and service organizations as well as from municipal heads of cities along the line, have apparently fallen upon deaf or unsympathetic ears and the railway order, sanctioned by the Office of Defense Transportation, went into effect Thursday morning.

According to previous announcement by the company, train 87, travelling west was to make its final trip March 1, but that order was cancelled and the train will be deadheaded back to Gladstone without making a scheduled run.

Whether this cancellation order is permanent is a matter of speculation, but as Ray Besner, Soo Line station agent, states, the permission to cancel the schedule was made by the ODT and that department is not as sensitive to public sentiment as the Michigan Public Service commission and a rehearing of the case is therefore, not likely.

Club Leaders Training Meet Here Friday

A meeting, having for its purpose the training of 4-H club leaders in early season activity, will be held at the court house on the evening of Friday, March 2, according to announcement by Joseph Hierman, county agent.

O. F. Walker and Miss Edith Johnson, 4-H club leaders for the Upper Peninsula, will have charge of the meeting. Mr. Walker will show leaders how to finish handicraft articles and will team up with Miss Johnson in giving demonstrations in certain handicrafts, among them the cleaning of old paint brushes that have been neglected in the past and as a result can no longer be used.

Miss Johnson will give the clothing club leaders some new ideas and suggestions that clothing club members can carry out.

All local leaders are invited to attend as well as anyone else who is interested in 4-H club work. It is also the wish of those in charge of the meeting that junior leaders from various communities in the county be present.

RC DRIVE OFF TO GOOD START

Campaign Well Planned And Workers On The Job

With all details carefully mapped out, officers, chairmen and workers have swung into action to raise Schoolcraft county's quota of $9,800 in the current American Red Cross drive which opened March 1.

In the city campaign, Mrs. Ray Prime and Mrs. E. R. Monroe are superintending the corps of volunteer workers making a house to house canvass in the east side of the city, while on the west side, Mrs. Henry DeSautel, assisted by Mrs. Verlin Guidebeck are looking after the campaign activities in their part of the city.

While the campaign is too much in its infancy to indicate what the results may be, workers report that the response, wherever they have gone has been cordial, and more often than not, gratifyingly generous.

In the industrial plants of the city, employers are consulting employees as to what they wish to contribute. Here too, the results have been very encouraging.

Ira Crawford and Gage Byse are directing the campaign among local business establishments. No report as yet has been made of activities along this line.

Joseph L. Heirman, county agricultural agent, who heads the campaign in rural areas has arranged with township supervisors to act as chairmen of their township campaigns.

Junior Red Cross members in all rural schools are being enlisted in the campaign and are operating under the guidance of Mrs. Ada S. Watson, county school commissioner, who is Junior Red Cross chairman.

PUREBRED SIRE CAMPAIGN ON

Series Of Meetings To Acquaint Farmers With Proposal

Improvement of Schoolcraft county dairy herds through use of purebred sires is being sought in a campaign to be conducted this year through the efforts of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau and the State Department of Agriculture, Joseph Heirman, County Agent announces.

George McIntyre, extension specialist in livestock will speak at a series of meetings to be conducted Monday and Tuesday this coming week, and explain the program being mapped out to put dairying on a better and a more profitable basis.

This campaign is a continuation of the one conducted last year that resulted in the bringing to the Upper Peninsula of more than one hundred pure bred bulls at very reasonable prices. Every one of these bulls came from herds with good production records, and in most cases replaced scrub animals. Mr. Heirman, in announcing the campaign and the local meetings, says, "There is room for a large number of good bulls on farms in this area, and with this in mind, Mr. McIntyre will hold educational meetings in the county on March 5 and 6 at which time he will explain the need for improvement in herds."

Mr. McIntyre will illustrate his talk with colored slides. Several pictures will be shown illustrating "before and after" effects of last year's campaign in this area.

Following is the schedule of the meetings:

Monday, March 5 8:00 p. m. Whitehead school.

Tuesday, March 6, 2:00 p. m.

Orders for bull calves will be taken by the county agent until May 1. The orders will then be pooled and sent in to the Dairy Specialist who will go out and buy the bulls. Farmers who would like to buy heifer calves can also place orders, however, one cannot promise that these later orders will be filled.

Here we go again!

It happens so often this time of year—a cow off feed because her machinery has slowed down and jammed on dry feed.

We believe this type of dairy farm trouble can be materially reduced. They seldom have it on the Research Farm among the cows that get Dr. Hess Stock Tonic regularly.

We believe you'll have fewer cows off feed in the dairy barn if Stock Tonic is added to the ration.

Eskymos Meet Kingsford Tonight In Final Pre-Tournament Game

WINNER GETS SEEDING SPOT

Escanaba Reserves Play Junior High Team In Preliminary

The Eskymos basketball team will meet the Kingsford Flivvers tonight in a return game at the junior high school gymnasium and the battle is something more than just "another game" to the two teams. At stake is the lower seeded position in the district Class B tournament at Iron Mountain.

Kingsford defeated Escanaba in the first game between the teams. The winner of tonight's game will get the seeded position at the bottom of the tournament bracket, Iron Mountain having already clinched the top seeded spot. Each team is anxious to get the seeded position because it will eliminate that team from drawing for the third first-round bye.

Coach George Ruwisch will start Ohman at center; Finn and Ross at forwards; Dufour and Scott at guard; with Jack Schils alternating with Ross on one of the forward positions. LeRoy Finn, Peterson, MacRae and Wickholm also will be available for duty if called.

The Escanaba Reserves will play the junior high school team in a reserve game and Coach Henry Wylie announced that all 15 boys on the reserve squad will get into action. They are Wm. Harvey, Warren Carlson, Don Jacobs, Paul James, Howard Nichols, Jim Finn, Warren Lee, Gordon Schils, Melvin Crepeau, Wendell Buckland, Ray Schmelzer, Howard Klemmetson and Bill Turner.

Lars Cameron, Gladstone, and Tom Chambers, Menominee, will officiate.

BOB LUNDHOLM SAFE

Iron Mountain—"Don't worry about Bob." I was with him through the thick of battle and I am certain he was taken prisoner by the Germans," was the reassuring message sent by Robert Franklinski to Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Lundholm, 302 West E. whose son, Sgt. Robert Lundholm, 20, has been missing in Germany since Dec. 21. Franklinski sent the letter to his mother, Mrs. Gertrude Franklinski with the request that she notify Mr. and Mrs. Lundholm and the sergeant's wife, the former Rose Chrest, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Chrest.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

The Bay de Noc speed skating club averted a lot of trouble for high school lads when the club withdrew merchandise certificates it had intended to present to winners of the upper peninsula skating races here Saturday. Acceptance of these prizes would have resulted in suspension of these athletes from high school athletic competition for a year. The club officials presumed the MHSAA regulations followed a pattern similar to that of the AAU and that the acceptance of merchandise certificates would not be cause for disqualification.

The MHSAA rule concerning the acceptance of gifts or prizes in excess of $1 value is very specific. The only exceptions are those permitting acceptance of medals and trophies. Too many high school athletes have been suspended from interscholastic competition because they accepted athletic prizes in excess of a $1 intrinsic value. Gifts of sweaters or any clothing are not permitted. Money as prizes, of course, also is taboo since high school lads are supposed to be strictly amateurs if they are to compete in interscholastic competition.

$500 TOP PRIZE AT ISHPERING

Handicap Sweepstakes To Be Held Saturday And Sunday

Ishpeming—Thirty-eight teams representing 14 communities of the Upper Peninsula already have entered the second annual team handicap sweepstakes, to be conducted Saturday and Sunday on the Sportland bowling alleys.

The management expected two more entries from the Copper Country. Sponsors of the meet announced 50 per cent of the entry fees will be given as first prize. With a $25 entry fee, 40 teams would make a fund of $1,000 with $500 for first place.

There will be awards for those finishing in the upper brackets, with special prizes and one for high single game, so that all entry fees will go into prizes and the actual expenses of promotion.

The event is four games across eight alleys, total pins counting. Scratch will be $25 and a team's handicap will be half the difference between tournament scratch and the team's season average.

The tourney starts at 7 Saturday evening, with a 9 o'clock second shift. Sunday bowling is scheduled for 1, 3:45 and 7:30.

Communities represented to date are: Manistique, Munising, Escanaba, Norway, Iron Mountain, Caspian, Iron River, Hancock, Painesdale, South Range, Crystal Falls, Negaunee, Marquette and Ishpeming.

And since the basketball season is drawing to a close, it might be well to repeat a ruling made recently by the high school athletic council concerning participation in post-season basketball games. The rule: "A student who has represented his high school in basketball during the last three weeks preceding the date of, or in, Michigan high school athletic association tournament play, may not compete on any other basketball team during the remainder of the current school year." The penalty for such violation is suspension for a period of one year from the date of the violation.

Ten days ago it was reported that Ford Frick had just about lost all chance of being elected to the position of baseball commissioner and it was said then that the Frick boom was collapsing like a Japanese Zero. Then Frick went to Washington and did some tall talking with government bigwigs. Now the report is that Frick will win the commissioner's job after all, and that he now has 11 of the 12 votes necessary for election. All of the National League, except the Cincinnati Reds, is for Frick. The only other name prominently mentioned now is John W. Bricker, former Ohio governor and candidate for vice president last fall on the Republican ticket.

Hit and Miss. The major leagues are planning to operate with 22-man squads in 1945 and there is growing evidence that baseball will be permitted to keep its 4-F's... without which, of course, there would be no baseball at all. Feller is going back to the Cleveland Indians after the war, regardless of whether his flipper is in shape or not. He can be assistant to the groundskeeper, if nothing else, he reports. Walker Cooper is the third Cardinal captain accepted for military service since America's entry into the war.

Emeralds, Braves Clash Tonight At Manistique Gym

Manistique's last scheduled game of the season will be played this evening at the local gym with Gladstone as the rival team. This should be a war of a game for it will be remembered that while Gladstone won the game played in that city early in the season, it won by a narrow squeak after the Emeralds had led by a fairly comfortable margin throughout almost the entire game.

At any rate, Coach Reque's hopefuls (and sometimes hopeleses) are bound and determined to close the home season with a win.

It will be as thrilling a game as any played on the local floor this season.

Gladstone, Mich. — The Gladstone high school Braves play their last scheduled game of the regular season tonight when they travel to Manistique for the second of the home and home series of games.

The Schoolcrafters will be gunning to avenge a defeat in an overtime game earlier this season and with the game on their home floor and with Kinzinger and Lundmark lost to the squad the odds should favor them slightly.

Kinzinger entered service several weeks ago while Lundmark is ineligible for this game because of scholastic difficulties.

Coach Eldon Keil plans to start Schness at center, Sign or Olive at left forward and Haglund at right forward and Gillis and Engstrom at guards.

Nip Gladstone, 27 To 26; Powers Beats Rock In D-E, 38-15

Menominee won the Class B-C reserve team championship at Stephenson Wednesday by nosing out Gladstone, 27 to 26, in a hair-raising finish, while Powers rode to a relatively easy 38 to 15 victory over Rock in the D-E section.

Valind of Gladstone had an opportunity to send the Braves home with a victory when he drew two free throws on a foul in the closing 15 seconds of the game but he missed them both. He had played a very strong game against Menominee, however.

The Braves made a gallant rally after a slow start in which they trailed 13 to 4 at the end of the first quarter. Gladstone outscored Menominee in each of the final three periods.

The Powers-Rock game was settled in the opening quarter when Powers ran up an 18 to 4 lead.

The period scores: Menominee 13 4 7 3-27 Gladstone 4 7 8 7-26 Powers 18 9 6 5-38 Rock 4 4 3 4-15

Williamsport Has Cuban Accent In Baseball Lineup

By WHITNEY MARTIN New York, March 1 (AP)—Ted Laviano doesn't expect as many headlines as business manager of the Williamsport, Pa., club in the Eastern League this year. A guy can get used to nearly anything, and after all, the year of experience he's had will help him.

He'll probably still get 3 a. m. calls asking him to get some aspirin, or have to tell a bewildered waitress that the young man asking for "hum and cheepie-cheepie" really wants ham and eggs, but he figures that's just part of his job.

The Williamsport club last year started the season with 13 Cubans and one Venezuelan. Only one, Shortstop Danny Day, could speak English, so Mr. Laviano's work was cut out for him. It was Manager Ray Kolp's job to see they didn't get lost going from first to third, but the rest of the time it was up to Mr. Laviano.

Agreement With Senators "I think we had the fastest club in organized baseball last year," he says. "We were in third place until the last two or three weeks of the season, simply because of our speed. Every man could hunt like a scared rabbit. We led the league in stolen bases, and Joe Zardoni, our centerfielder, stole home seven times."

That famous importer, Joe Cambria, was responsible for the presence of the Cuban lads. Williamsport has a working agreement with the Washington Senators, for whom Cambria toils as scout. His happy hunting ground is the rocks and rills of the Latin America's, and naturally the Senators can't use all his finds, although their roster looks like they are making a noble effort.

Laviano didn't object to this unloading of these importations on his club. It gave him a chance to brush up on his high school Spanish, for one thing, and he found them interesting.

"On the whole they're not too strong as hitters," he says, "but in the field and on bases they're hustling all the time. I've seen them get five runs without hitting the ball out on the infield. They lack the physical power of our boys, probably through a faulty diet, but most of them were pretty good sized, and one Frank Gallardo, a second baseman, could really lace that ball. I've seen him hit a 400-foot home run. He was just as good in the field, too."

Williamsport occasionally had as many as seven Latinos on the field at one time. It never did have a Cuban first baseman or left fielder, but Sam Langley, former Chattanooga university football player who played first base, was a 10-second man and Wally Michie left fielder claimed by Birmingham, also was plenty fast so there really wasn't a weak spot on the team from a speed standpoint.

Their emotional nature and tendency to show off is one of the weaknesses of the Cubans. Laviano believes, but he thinks the boys will overcome those traits through association with our players.

"Keep telling them not to walk around in circles and glare at the umpire when a strike is called on them," he says. "The umpires aren't going to give them any breaks for that."

From his standpoint as business manager, the most pleasing factor was the attendance. The club drew all others on the road, and was so popular at Williamsport the boys were positively pampered. This year the team has a reserve list of 30 men, about half of them Cubans.

"We're ready to go," he says. "As for baseball in general, I just don't know."

HAEGG'S CRUISE TAKES 3 WEEKS

Two Swedish Trackmen Arrive For Indoor Events In March

New York, March 1 (AP)—Swedish track stars Gunde Haegg and Haakon Lidman arrived in the United States late today after a voyage from England of more than three weeks.

Originally scheduled to fly here, the pair was shunted to boats when plane passage was unavailable. They left Sweden Feb. 1 and at that time hoped to compete in the American indoor championships Feb. 24.

Both are scheduled to appear in this week-end's IC - 4A indoor meet, Haegg being carded against four U. S. milers in the Louis S. Zamperini invitational mile. Lidman is booked for a hurdle exhibition.

Other indoor meets still on the card are the Knights of Columbus meet at Madison Square Garden on March 10, the Chicago Relays on March 17 and the Cleveland Knights of Columbus games on March 24.

Haegg went undefeated in eight races against the United States' best in the summer of 1943. He earned $135,000 for the Army Air Forces in that series after needing 26 days to make the trip to this country on a Swedish tanker.

Fatalities Lowered For Hunting Season

Lansing, March 1 (AP)—Michigan's 1944 hunting season was the safest in five years, the state conservation department reported today, although deaths during the small game season were above average.

The department said the 30 gunshot fatalities during both the small game and deer seasons amounted to one death for every 27,761 hunting licenses issued, compared with one to 25,103 in the year preceding and the five-year average of one to 26,917.

In the small game season, the ratio of one to 31,675 licenses compared with the five-year average of one to 37,295 licenses.

In the deer season, the ratio of one to 17,648 compared with a five year average of one to 16,072.

Traunik Motorist Gets Prison Term In Homicide Case

Munising—Ernest Korpi, 19, resident of Traunik, who pleaded guilty to a charge of negligent homicide in Marquette county circuit court, Wednesday was sentenced by Judge Frank A. Bell to serve from one to five years in the Marquette branch prison.

Korpi was the driver of the car that in January struck and killed Carl Bergh, 32, a resident of Munising, and seriously injured his wife Ellen, the former Ellen Lundsted, also of Munising. The couple were struck while walking on Grove street near Olle's Barn in Marquette county.

The condition of Mrs. Bergh has improved somewhat and she was able to attend the trial.

KORPI PLEADS GUILTY Marquette—Ernest Korpi, 19, Traunik resident who drove the car which, in January, struck and killed Carl I. Bergh, 32, of Skandia, on Grove street near Olle's tavern, pleaded guilty in circuit court yesterday when arraigned before Judge Frank A. Bell on a charge of negligent homicide.

A plea of guilty was also made by Erwin Brassard, charged with breaking jail. It is probable that Korpi and Brassard will be sentenced Wednesday.

Secretary of War Stimson says that when hostilities cease in Europe, the war department intends to "marshal against the Japanese every soldier and every item of equipment that can be used effectively to speed final victory."

Any suggestion that large numbers of servicemen will be "coming home for discharge" can only lead to "cruel disappointment," Stimson commented.

The Office of Defense Transportation anticipates a three to four-months period of "confusion and readjustment" when men and materials in great numbers are shifted westward.

Major Gen. C. P. Gross, head of the Army Transportation Corps, says that the end of the war with Germany will cause an upward revision of requirements.

TRAUNKI MOTORIST Gets Prison Term In Homicide Case

Munising—Ernest Korpi, 19, resident of Traunik, who pleaded guilty to a charge of negligent homicide in Marquette county circuit court, Wednesday was sentenced by Judge Frank A. Bell to serve from one to five years in the Marquette branch prison.

Korpi was the driver of the car that in January struck and killed Carl Bergh, 32, a resident of Munising, and seriously injured his wife Ellen, the former Ellen Lundsted, also of Munising. The couple were struck while walking on Grove street near Olle's Barn in Marquette county.

The condition of Mrs. Bergh has improved somewhat and she was able to attend the trial.

KORPI PLEADS GUILTY Marquette—Ernest Korpi, 19, Traunik resident who drove the car which, in January, struck and killed Carl I. Bergh, 32, of Skandia, on Grove street near Olle's tavern, pleaded guilty in circuit court yesterday when arraigned before Judge Frank A. Bell on a charge of negligent homicide.

A plea of guilty was also made by Erwin Brassard, charged with breaking jail. It is probable that Korpi and Brassard will be sentenced Wednesday.

DRAFT CALLS ARE RECEIVED

Selectees Will Be Sent To Marquette This Month

The Delta county draft board yesterday received a call for 47 men for preinduction examination this month and 24 men for induction.

The induction group will leave Escanaba March 26 for Marquette and will be inducted there the following day. The group leaving for preinduction examination will leave Escanaba March 27 and will receive their examinations at Marquette on March 28. Both groups will travel to Marquette by bus.

This is the first time in a number of months that the induction and preinduction groups have been sent to Marquette. For the past several months the selectees have been sent to Milwaukee. It has been indicated that the induction board will be at Marquette for this month only and that selectees will be sent to Milwaukee in subsequent months.

The calls for both induction and preinduction for March are somewhat smaller than the calls in February.

Mrs. Kolivisto underwent an operation at the Mayo Clinic about a year ago and had been in a weakened condition since that time. Death was due to a weakened heart and high blood pressure.

Surviving are her husband, two daughters, Mrs. Arne Johnson, (Miriam) of Trenary, and Ruth, who teaches in Munising; two sisters, Mrs. Kaupala, of Republic and Mrs. Sanni Wesa, of Detroit, and one brother.

Funeral services will be held from her home at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Plea For Red Cross Fund Brings Generous Response

The 1945 Red Cross War Fund drive opened yesterday in Delta county and solicitors reported splendid cooperation and generous response to their plea to "keep your Red Cross at his side".

Mrs. M. L. Council, chairman of the residential division in Escanaba, reported that many of the block solicitors had reached their block quotas before completing all their assigned calls. The solicitors also said that they were received warmly, and were particularly welcomed in those homes which had given sons and daughters to the nation's armed forces.

Lee Hendricks, Escanaba city chairman, reported that many solicitors in the business district found the contributions were larger than last year. There was everywhere a willingness to give generously.

In the residential area of Escanaba the first Red Cross block solicitor to report completion of her assignments was Mrs. Edward Murphy of 416 South Sixth street. She reported to her zone captain, Mrs. Charles Lewis, that the quota for her block had been practically doubled.

Mrs. E. F. Harrington is division chairman of that area. "Everyone in the block made their contributions willingly and cheerfully," Mrs. Murphy said. "Best of all, there was not a single 'no' from anyone."

Last night the Escanaba city council, in response to a plea by George Lindenthal, general chairman for the 1945 Red Cross drive in Delta county, authorized an appropriation of $1,200 to the Red Cross War Fund. The contribution comes from utility revenues and is similar in application to contributions made by major industries of the county.

It is expected, however, that the city's contribution will not be accepted unless it is found that the county's $37,900 quota cannot otherwise be reached. Last year the city authorized a $1,000 contribution but with similar understanding, but the goal was attained without its payment.

Gladstone Red Cross solicitors also had the drive well under way there, under the direction of Chairman Joseph Sturgeon. Gladstone has a quota of $6,800.

Escanaba industry under the direction of E. E. Bennett reported satisfactory progress by the group of industrial solicitors. Industry is expected to meet its quota within the next few days.

Joseph Ivens, general township chairman, reported that the drive was under way in most of the townships yesterday, and that some township chairmen had telephoned to say they expected to reach their quotas soon.

In Wells township Charles McCauley is acting as Red Cross chairman for Felix Johnson. The attention of Bark River township resident was directed to an error in the announcement of the names of township chairman. Bark River's chairman is Mrs. A. E. Johnson. Another name was incorrectly given previously.

Lt. John W. Stack Has Thrilling First Raid Over Germany

Lt. John W. Stack, East Lansing, formerly a student at Michigan State college and a former Escanaban, helped pilot a stricken B-17 Flying Fortress for many miles over enemy territory during his first mission over Germany recently, according to a report from an Eighth Air Force bomber station in England. The 20-year-old lieutenant was co-pilot of "Milk Run Mable" which, with a unit of the Third Air division, was helping bomb Cologne's marshaling yards. Direct flack hits knocked the bomber out of formation with one wing afire and with engines sputtering but the pilots kept the ship in the air to a point over Belgium where all of the crew bailed out safely.

Lt. Stack is a brother of Mrs. Mary C. Lafean, 301 Abbot Road, East Lansing, and was a freshman at Michigan State before entering the army air forces. He is a son of John K. Stack, Jr., former auditor general who died in office a decade ago.
